From the New York Tribune.

A True Story.

Two or three weeks ago an accident did not occur near Scranton, Penn.; the newspapers missed a sensational horror; and a dozen men, instead of being hurled into eternity without time to breathe a prayer, walked quietly home to their dinners, quite unconscious that Death had had them by the throats. It might, after all, be worth our while to look into the cause of the loss of this tragedy to the world; we should have been keen enough to unearth the guilty party if it had occurred. The facts are briefly these:

In the largest anthracite coal mine in the State, the care of the engine by which the cars for passengers are lowered and hoisted is placed in the hands of a Scotch-Irishman, an ordinary fellow enough. The cable, necessarily of great weight and thickness, passes through the roof of a slightly-built shed under which he stands. One morning, as the man stood smoking his pipe, his hand upon the lever, his mind very probably busy with his dinner, and assuredly not wrought up to any heroic rapture of resolve, the ascending car (loaded with coal) at one end of the cable, broke, and fell crashing into the dark shaft, to be shattered into a thousand fragments. He knew that in the next minute the cable, released from the strain, would fly back and fall with crushing weight on the rickety beams and boards of the roof. Death was absolutely certain if he did not escape from the shed; but if he took his hand from the lever, the descending car, full of men, must fall one or two hundred feet. He had but one instant to face his death and theirs, and to choose between them. There was a boy in the back of the shed; the man motioned to him with his head to go out. Then he tightened his hold on the lever. The loosened cable caught and struck somewhere below against the side of the shaft. Surely, God meant it should so strike! It was the delay of but a breath of time; but it was enough. The car grated with a jar against the ground far below; its occupants stepped leisurely out, while the man who had saved them above, threw himself from under the shed, just as its roof, beams, pulley and all, crashed down on the spot where he had been standing.

We do not know the man's name, and should scarcely need to publish it if we did. Fame or reward jar somehow against the deed itself. There is a wholesome tonic for all of us in the certainty, which is forced upon us now and then, of the unknown, unmeasured resources of courage and heroism and unflinching integrity to duty which we possess among what we choose to call the mass of the people. It is, after all, only after a man reaches the certainties of middle age that he is not surprised every new day by the knowledge of how admirable a crew has been put into the world for its long voyage; how many of the women are graceful and finely natured; how many men respond promptly to the call of honesty or duty or even self-sacrifice because it is the simple and natural thing for them to do so. We will congratulate ourselves, then, not that his class can boast one such brave fellow as this Scotch-Irish engineer, but that, like King Harry over Percy's grave, we believe that it "has a thousand such as he."

Anecdote of Washington.

During the General's administration, he daily attended his room, adjoining the Senate-chamber, and often arrived before the Senate organized. On one occasion, but before his arrival, Gouverneur Morris and some other Senators were standing together, conversing on various topics, and, among them, the natural but majestic air of General Washington, when some one observed there was no man living who could take a liberty with him. The sprightly and bold Morris remarked, "I will bet a dozen of wine I can do that with impunity." The bet was accepted.

Soon after, Washington appeared, and commenced an easy and pleasant conversation with one of the gentlemen, at a little distance from the others. While thus engaged, Morris stepped up, in a jocund manner, familiarly tapped Washington on the shoulder, and said,—

"Good morning, old fellow!"

The General turned, and merely looked him in the face, without a word, when Morris, with all his assumed effrontery, stepped hastily back, in evident discomposure, and said:—

"Gentlemen, you have won the bet. I will never take such a liberty again!"

The Law of Color.

We do not study sufficiently the art of color; and by this neglect the effect of many an expensive wardrobe or elaborate piece of furniture is disagreeable. One or two colors should be dull, and not too pale; this is not generally known, or it is forgotten, and the result is the coarse and vulgar contrasts that we see around us. Blue is a favorite color, yet it is rare in nature; there are but few blue flowers; there is no blue in the human race; blue eyes many fancy they possess, but a clear blue is the rarest thing in nature. Green is blooming in itself because it annuls any tinge of green which may be latent to the complexion. Deep, heavy reds are much used by the old Italian artists for drapery, but they need to be contrasted, as it would be difficult to do in dress. Yellow is an unjustly despised color; it has many beautiful shades, and only when too pure proves unmanageable. A brownish yellow is more suitable for elderly persons. A brunnette should wear a green yellow. Pale green is trying to the majority of faces.

Iron in the Blood
PERUVIAN SYRUP
AN IRON TONIC
MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
